

HUTTON, LORNE DE HUTTON

Lorne de Hutton Hutton.

Petit, which is north-west of Bapaume. He wrote to his sister: "We were suc enlisted in 1915; served with the Expeditionary Force in France and Flanders, and was killed in action in May, 1917. Buried at Ballymore, Arras; unm.

HUTTON, LORNE DE HUTTON, 2nd Lieut., 124th Machine Gun Corps, s. of the late David Con Hutton, Art Master, Dunedin School of Art and Design, by his wife, Helen Bryden, 8th dau. of the late Archibald Douglas, of Edinburgh; b. Dunedin, 20 Oct. 1880; educ. at Arthur Street School there; served his apprenticeship as a Carpenter with Messrs. Findlay & Murdoch, and was for a number of years employed in that capacity; subsequently entered the employ of Mr. Robert Forrest, Architect, and on 31 March, 1910, was registered as an Architect. In May, 1914, he proceeded to London to complete his studies in architecture, and while there obtained his A.R.I.B.A. diploma; joined the Artists' Rifles as a Cadet 15 Dec. 1915; was gazetted 2nd Lieut. 15 Jan. 1917; served with the Expeditionary Force in France; was sent to Italy 10 Nov. 1917, but was recalled to France in March, 1918, and was killed in action at Bievillers on the 23rd of that month. Buried about 1,500 yards south-south-west of Achiet-le-

Lorne de Hutton Hutton.

Petit, which is north-west of Bapaume. A brother officer, 2nd Lieut. Knight, wrote to his sister: "We were successful in holding the enemy for some time, but were driven back at last. Your brother, after making a very brave stand, was shot by a machine gun just as he was retiring. He died instantly, a very brave death. I have never met a braver, cleaner living, straighter man during my three years in the trenches. This is the opinion of all the officers and men in his company." Unm.

HUTTON, ROBERT, Sergt., D Coy., 306th Machine Gun Battn. American Expeditionary Force, only s. of Hugh Hutton, of Ardlamont, Millhouse, Kyles of Bute, by his wife, Mary, dau. of Duncan Kerr; b. Muirkirk, 25 July, 1882; educ. the Grammar School and the Academy, Kilmarnock; went

